

Center for Future Security Strategies Intern

Description: The Hudson Center for Future Security Strategies has openings for interns year-round to work on a variety of foreign, defense, intelligence, and homeland security/counterterrorism policy issues.

Qualifications: Desirable qualifications include good research and writing skills, and an interest in international affairs. Although unpaid, interns enjoy flexible schedules, a choice of research subjects, and opportunities to meet many leading experts in the field. Non-resident (“telecommuting”) opportunities are also available via the Internet.

To Apply: Please contact Richard Weitz at Weitz@Hudson.org.
